Chinatown Rising is a documentary film about the Asian-American Civil Rights Movement from the 1960's - 1980's from the perspective of the young residents on the front lines of their historic neighborhood in transition.

11:05 to 11:45 - Vincent Who?
A 2009 documentary that details the 1982 murder of Vincent Chin in Detroit, Michigan. Chin, a 27-year-old Chinese-American, was beaten to death by two Detroit autoworkers. Chin's killers got off with a $3,000 fine and 3 years probation, but no jail time. Outraged by this injustice, Asian Americans around the country united for the first time across ethnic and socioeconomic lines to form a pan-Asian identity and civil rights movement.

10:40 AM to 11:00 AM: Dear Corky
For over fifty years, Corky Lee photographed New York's Chinatown, and Asian American communities around the country. With a strong sense of social justice, he captured activists, celebrities, and everyday heroes. Sadly, Corky fell to COVID. Through his own words and pictures, Dear Corky reveals the man behind the camera.
